If your comfort zone
is too boring

See Timo Bernhard in action at the Porsche Sport Driving School.

We are delighted to have secured a truly special cooperation deal in time for the start of the 2016 training season: one of the most successful sports car drivers in the world – racing champion Timo Bernhard – is now an official partner of the Porsche Sport Driving School.

In this role, he will personally attend selected training events, share his many years of experience with our participants and assist them with the continued development of their driving skills.

Timo Bernhard is the longest-serving Porsche works driver. He began his successful career with Porsche in 1999 as a junior and, to this day, remains the only works driver to have been crowned champion in all categories of the Porsche pyramid: in 2001, he won the Porsche Carrera Cup Germany; in 2004, he took the GT title in the American Le Mans Series; in 2007 and 2008, he was named LMP2 class champion at the same venue with the RS Spyder. Timo Bernhard has won all the major sports car endurance races: the 24h of Le Mans and Daytona and the 12h of Sebring. Not to mention five triumphs at the 24h of Nürburgring. Before his world championship title in 2015, his greatest international award had come with overall victory in Le Mans 2010 for Audi. Since 2013, Timo has been an integral part of the Le Mans LMP1 project with Porsche. In the FIA World Endurance Championship, he co-piloted the Porsche 919 Hybrid with Australia's Mark Webber and New Zealand's Brendon Hartley. In 2015, the trio went on to claim a total of four victories in eight races, a haul that ultimately led to the WEC drivers' title.

We are excited to call on Timo Bernhard's many years of experience as part of our Porsche Sport Driving School training courses, and we look forward to being able to share this experience with you.
